

Mal Berisha

Former Ambassador of the Republic of Albania to the United Kingdom of Great Britain, Northern Ireland and Ireland, (2012 – 2015)

Born in Tropojë in 1952, Berisha has graduated from the Academy of Arts of Albania. His life has been chiefly linked with cultural life of Albania. He is a history scholar and a translator and has published a number of books and articles about various subjects of history, culture, and diplomacy.

He has served as the Ambassador of the Republic of Albania to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and Ireland from 2012 to 2015, and as the General Consul of Albania to Istanbul from 1993-1997.

In 1998, following his assignment in Turkey, Berisha joined the Albanian American Civic League (AACL) led by former Congressman, Hon. Joseph DioGuardi and Pan – Albanian Federation of America “VATRA”, (The Hearth) contributing to the indefatigable efforts of Albanian Americans to resolve the Kosovo question.

Berisha appeared on CN8, an U.S television as an expert and historian shedding light to the unjust treatment of Albanians in Kosovo and presenting to the American public the values that the two nations inherently shared.

In 2000, congruous to these beliefs, Berisha joined the United Nations (UNMIK) in helping Kosovo construct its own democratic institutions. Having spent roughly a decade in Kosovo, Berisha returned to Albania where he was appointed General Director of Regional Affairs and Initiatives at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Berisha has written, or translated and published a number of books including:

“Southern Albania or Northern Epirus in the European International Relations, 1912-1923” written by Dr. Edith Pierpont Stickney of Stanford University of California;

“Rescue in Albania”, written by Harvey Sarnet, outlining the history of the Albanian “Besa” and telling the gripping story of the Jews saved in Albania where 100 per cent of the Jews were saved in his country.

“Albanians, Oaks on the Illyrian Soil”, a full study of The National Geographic Magazine articles focusing on Albania and Albanians in a course of over 100 years (2007);

“Albanians, the Youngest and Most Ancient Europeans” (2008);

“Charles Telford Erickson, A Life Dedicated to Albania” (2012).

“Herman Bernstein, U.S Ambassador to Albania” (December 2014), (English) and has presented it to YIVO Institute for Jewish Research in Manhattan, New York;

“Herman Bernstein, U.S Ambassador to Albania “published in November 2017, in Albanian

This books were presented in the U.S Embassy in London. This book details the close relations between Jews, Albanians, and the United States Government.

“Realities of the Albanian–British Relations” (in Albanian) published in 2015 on the eve of closing his mission to the UK. The book was launched at the Regent University of London and the British Embassy in Tirana.

In 2018 he has presented another book on the life of US Ambassador to the Kingdom of Albania, 1930 – 1933. The book was launched in New York, on January 6, 2018.

Mal Berisha has lectured in:

- YIVO Institute for Jewish Research, New York, 2014,
- US Embassy in London, 2015,
- London School of Economis,
- British Embassy in Tirana, 2016
- Geneva School of Diplomacy in Genève, Switzerland, 2017,
- Kennedy School of Government, Cambridge, 2017
- Diplomatic Academy of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Kosovo, 2016
- Geneva School of Diplomacy – Switzerland

Mal Berisha has initiated and placed two monuments of the Albanian National hero Skanderbeg. First one was inaugurated in London on 28 November 2012, to honor the centenary of the independence of Albania. It is located in the Lady Samuels Gardens, Bayswater, 113 Inverness Terrace, London W2 6JH. The other one was placed on 4 August, 2013 at the Skanderbeg Square, in Munxhufuni (Montecilfone), in Molise Regione, Italy, a town populated by old Albanians (Arberesh) who were forced out by the Turks in 15th century to Italy, where they were settled ever since.

He has published numerous articles of the Diplomatic and historical nature in Albanian press. He has captured the attention of the public with his soft-spoken articulation of the issues and expert-based approach to Diplomatic relations of Albania, appearing in the majority of the national news outlets of the country. Additionally, he continues to lecture in domestic and foreign universities. He is an honorary member of the Pan – Albanian Federation of America, “VATRA”. He is a Knight Commander of Royal Order of Francis I, KFCO and holds Knight Order of “Skanderbeg” awarded by the President of the Republic of Albania (2017). While he lectures as a freelancer author about History of Diplomacy between Albania and the Anglo – Saxon World, his current job is CEO of the biggest Insurance Company SIGAL UNIQA Group Austria, for the Republic of Kosovo.